Ortensio Lando Docg 2014

History – “.. pleasant to the stomach, soothing to the nerves and delightful to the palate”

“Being in Tilio, at the presence of said Teio, whence the valley took its name, I drank a wine that I firmly believe to be the best to be drunk in the world”

Roughly translated words by Ortensio Lando, philosopher, bon vivant and literary man among the most original of Italian humanism, written in 1548 regarding a stay in Teglio, Valtellina, at the court of Azzo Besta. This truly is the forerunner of the valley’s wine excellence. This wine is dedicated to him. Produced exclusively with Nebbiolo grapes picked in the finest areas in Valtellina Superiore, the Grumello. A great wine that presents itself, in the words of Ortensio Lando “pleasant to the stomach, soothing to the nerves and delightful to the palate”.
